

A scene from the Vineyard Theatre production of "Three Tall Women." Set design by James Noone.

Copyright ©, 1994, by Edward Albee Copyright ©, 1992, Edward Albee as an unpublished dramatic composition All Rights Reserved

CAUTION: Professionals and amateurs are hereby warned that EDWARD ALBEE'S THREE TALL WOMEN is subject to a royalty. It is fully protected under the copyright laws of the United States of America, and of all countries covered by the International Copyright Union (including the Dominion of Canada and the rest of the British Commonwealth), and of all countries covered by the Pan-American Copyright Convention and the Universal Copyright Convention, and of all countries with which the United States has reciprocal copyright relations. All rights, including professional/amateur stage rights, motion picture, recitation, lecturing, public reading, radio broadcasting, television, video or sound taping, all other forms of mechanical or electronic reproduction, such as information storage and retrieval systems and photocopying, and the rights of translation into foreign languages, are strictly reserved. Particular emphasis is laid upon the question of readings, permission for which must be secured from the Author's agent in writing.

The English language stock and amateur stage performance rights in the United States, its territories and possessions and Canada in are controlled exclusively by the DRAMATISTS PLAY SERVICE, INC., 440 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10016. No professional or non-professional performance of the Play may be given without obtaining in advance the written permission of the DRAMATISTS PLAY SERVICE, INC., and paying the requisite fee.

Inquiries concerning all other rights should be addressed to George Lane, c/o the William Morris Agency, Inc., 1325 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

SPECIAL NOTE

Anyone receiving permission to produce EDWARD ALBEE'S THREE TALL WOMEN is required to (1) give credit to the Author as sole and exclusive Author of the Play on the title page of all programs distributed in connection with performances of the Play and in all instances in which the title of the Play appears for purposes of advertising, publicizing or otherwise exploiting the Play and/or a production thereof, the name of the Author must appear on a separate line, in which no other name appears, prior to the title and in size of type equal to the largest letter used for the title of the Play. No person, firm or entity may receive credit larger or more prominent than that accorded the Author, and (2) give the following acknowledgment on the title page of all programs distributed in connection with performances of the Play:

The world premiere of the play took place at Vienna's English Theatre, Franz Schafranek, Producer, June, 1991.

The first U.S. production was by River Arts, Woodstock, New York, Lawerence Sacharow, Theatre Director.

The play received its New York City Premiere at the Vineyard Theatre

Elizabeth I. McCann, Jeffrey Ash, Daryl Roth in association with Leavitt/Fox/Mages presented the Vineyard Theatre production of the Play off-Broadway at the Promenade Theatre in New York City.

ALL EDWARD ALBEE PLAYS MUST BE PERFORMED IN THEIR ENTIRETY. NO CUTTINGS OR EXCERPTS MAY BE PERFORMED.

THREE TALL WOMEN was produced by Vineyard Theatre (Douglas Aibel, Artistic Director; Jon Nakagawa, Managing Director) in New York City, in January, 1994, and later moved to The Promenade Theatre (produced by Elizabeth I. McCann, Jeffrey Ash and Daryl Roth in association with Leavitt/Fox/Manges). It was directed by Lawrence Sacharow; the set design was by James Noone; the costume design was by Muriel Stockdale; the lighting design was by Phil Monat and the production stage manager was Elizabeth M. Berther. The cast was as follows:

THREE TALL WOMEN was originally produced by Franz Schafranek at Vienna's English Theatre in Vienna, Austria, on June 14, 1991. It was directed by Edward Albee; the assistant director was Eva Weidermann; the set design was by Claire Cahill; the costume design was by Ruth Bell; the lighting design was by Hans Georg Jobst and the production coordinator was Paul Van Der Lubbe. The cast was as follows:

THE CHARACTERS

A — a very old woman; thin, autocratic, proud, as together as the ravages of time will allow. Nails scarlet, hair nicely done, wears makeup. Lovely nightgown and dressing gown. B — looks rather as A would have at 52; plainly dressed. C — looks rather as B would have at 26.

The Boy — 23 or so; preppy dress (jacket, tie, shirt, jeans, loafers, etc.)

PLACE

A "wealthy" bedroom, French in feeling. Pastels, with blue predominant. A bed upstage center, with a small bench at its foot. Lacy pillows, a lovely spread. Nineteenth-century French paintings. Two light armchairs, beautifully covered in silk. If there is a window, silk swags. Pastel carpeted floor. Two doors, one left, one right. Archways for both.

THREE TALL WOMEN

ACT ONE

At rise, A is in the left armchair, B is in the right one, C on the bed-foot bench.

It is afternoon.

Some silence.

- A. (An announcement from nowhere; to no one in particular.) I'm ninety-one.
- B. (Pause.) Is that so?
- A. (Pause.) Yes.
- C. (Small smile.) You're ninety-two.
- . (Longer pause; none too pleasant.) Be that as it may
- B.  $(To\ C.)$  Is that so?
- C. (Shrugs; indicates papers.) Says so here.
- B. (Pause; stretching.) Well ... what does it matter?
- C. Vanity is amazing.
- B. So's forgetting.
- A. (General.) I'm ninety-one.
- B. (Accepting sigh.) O.K.
- (Smaller smile.) You're ninety-two. (Unconcerned.) Oh ... let it alone.
- C. No! It's important. Getting things ...
- B. It doesn't matter!
- C. (Sotto voce.) It does to me.
- A. (Pause.) I know because he says, You're exactly thirty years older than I am; I know how old I am because I know how old you are, and if you ever forget how old you are ask me how old I am, and then you'll know. (Pause.) Oh, he's said that a lot.

- What if he's wrong?
- (From a distance; curiously lighter, higher voice.) What?
- Let it be.
- years younger than you? (Still to A.) What if he's wrong? What if he's not thirty
- (Oddly loud, tough.) You'd think he'd know how old he
- No, I mean ... what if he's wrong about how old you are
- said it over and over. (Pause.) Every time he comes to see me. younger than me when I'm thirty years older than he is? He's What is today? (Pause.) Don't be silly. How couldn't he be thirty years
- It's [whatever day it is in reality].
- You see?!
- and it might not be him. (A bit as if to a child.) Well, one of you might be wrong
- (Small sneer.) He.
- (Quick smile.) Yes; I know.
- Don't be stupid. What is it? What day is it?
- It's fibid. J.
- (Shakes her head.) No.
- (Interested.) No what?
- No it isn't.
- (To A.) What day do you think it is?
- rowing.) Why, it's today, of course. What day do you think it (Turns to B; cackles.) (Confusion.) What day is it? What day do I...? (Eyes nar-
- Right on, girl!
- (Scoffs.) What an answer! What a dumb ...
- Don't you talk to me that way!
- $\dot{\mathbf{U}}$ (Offended.) Well! I'm sorry!
- P I pay you, don't I? You can't talk to me that way
- Ü In a way.
- (A daring tone.) What!?
- Indirectly. You pay someone who pays me, someone

- Well; there; you see? You can't talk to me that way.
- She isn't talking to you that way.
- She isn't talking to you that way.
- and self-loathing at having to cry. It takes quite a while.) self-pity, proceeds to crying for crying's sake, and concludes with rage (Pause.) Besides. (Silence; then A cries. They let her. It begins in (Dismissive laugh.) I don't know what you're talking about.
- (When it's over.) There. Feel better?
- (Under her breath.) Honestly.
- B joins her.) (To A.) A good cry lets it all out. (Laughs; sly.) What does a bad one do? (She laughs again;
- (Shakes her head in admiration.) Sometimes you're so ...
- (Ugly; suddenly.) What!?
- nice. Never mind. (Tiny pause.) Never mind. I was going to say something
- (To B.) What did she say!? She mumbles all the time
- I don't mumble! (Annoyance at herself.) Never mind!
- How is anybody expected to hear what she says!?
- (Placating.) She didn't finish her sentence. It doesn't mat-
- ter. (Small, smug triumph.) I'll bet it doesn't.
- would lie about one year ... made up the fiction so many years ago, though why anyone have been incorrect about your age for so long - may have (Dogged, but not unpleasant.) What I meant was you may
- (Weary.) Let her alone; let her have it if she wants to
- I will not
- Have what!?
- off ten or trying to. Though more probably seven, or five of vanity is that? - good and tricky - but one!? Taking off one year? What kind Why you would lie about one year. I can imagine taking
- (Clucks.) How you go on.
- (Imitation.) How you go on.
- (Purrs.) How I go on. So, I can understand ten, or five, or seven, but not one.

- How you do.
- (To C.) How you do. (To B.) How what!?
- How she goes on.
- Ω (Smiles.) Yes; I do. (Cheerful.) Yes! How you go on!
- Ω A On? (Suddenly, but not urgently.) I want to go
- one? Do you want the pan? You want to go? (Rises.) You want the pan? Is it number (More urgently.) I want to go. I want to go
- (Embarrassed to discuss it.) No.... Nooool
- Ah. (Moves to A.) All right. Can you walk?
- (Weepy.) I don't know!
- walker? Well, we'll try you. O.K.? (Indicates walker.) You want the
- to go! (Starts to fret-weep.) (Near tears.) I want to walk! I don't know! Anything! I have
- left arm is in a sling, useless.) All right! (B moves A to a standing position. We discover A's
- You're hurting me!! You're hurting me!!
- All right; I'm being careful!
- No, you're not!!
- No, you're not!!! Yes, I am!
- (Angry.) Yes, I am!
- help.) You're trying to hurt me; you know I hurt!! No, you're not! (On her feet, weeping, shuffling off with B's
- (To C, as they exit.) Hold the fort.
- these things get important. (She sits in A's chair.) Why can't I year — some kind of one-upmanship, a private vengeance, perhaps, some tiny victory, maybe. (Shrugs.) I don't know, maybe to herself and to be heard.) I suppose one could lie about one looks toward them, shakes her head, looks back down. Continued; both I will. I will hold the fort. (Muffled exchanges off-stage. C
- (Re-enters.) Made it that time. (Sighs.) And so it goes
- Not always, eh?

- of greeting to the day, I suppose: the sphincter and the cortex not in sync. Never during the night, but as she wakes. In the morning, when she wakes up she wets -- a kind
- Good morning to the morning, eh?
- Something to something.
- Put a diaper on her.
- but she won't have it. (Shakes her head.) She won't have it. I'm working on it,
- Won't have it. Get her up, put her in the chair and she Rubber sheet?
- does the other. Give her a cup of coffee ... her in her chair, give her her cup of coffee and place your How has she lived this long? Give her her cup of coffee, put Black. (Chuckles.) Half cream and all that sugar! Three spoons!
- (Looks at the chair she is in.) What chair!? This chair!?
- (Laughs.) You got it. Don't worry.
- It must be awful.
- (Deprecating.) For whom?
- you, too, but you're paid. (Rising to it.) For her! You're paid. It's probably awful for
- As she never ceases to inform me ... and you.
- To begin to lose it, I mean the control, the loss of
- dignity, the ... Oh, stop it! It's downhill from sixteen on! For all of us!
- Yes, but ...
- say, "I'm dying" and know what it means. so soft. I'd like to see children learn it — have a six-year-old out ... and that's it. You start ... and then you stop. Don't be you into it. The last one ... well, the last one you let it all The first one you take in you're upside down and they slap out yet? (Demonstrates.) You take the breath in ... you let it out. What are you, twenty-something? Haven't you figured it
- You're horrible!
- time. Make 'em aware that they're dying from the minute Start in young; make 'em aware they've got only a little

- Grow up! Do you know it? Do you know you're dying?
- Well, of course, but ...
- (Ending it.) Grow up.
- nobody'd care. (Wobbling, shuffling in.) A person could die in there and
- (Bright.) Done already!
- something! A person could die! Nobody would care! A person could die! A person could fall down and break
- (Going to her.) Let me help you.
- die for all anybody'd care. (Good arm flailing.) Get your hands off me! A person could
- person could do this, a person could do ... (To herself, but to be overheard.) Who is this ... "person"? A
- It's a figure of speech.
- (Mildly sarcastic.) No. Really?
- (Not rising to it.) So they tell me
- You want me to fall! (Flailing about.) Hold on to me! Do you want me to fall!?
- .. ten pieces. Yes, I want you to fall; I want you to fall and shatter in
- Or five, or seven.
- gone to? Where's my chair! (Sees it perfectly well.) Where's my chair
- Somebody's taken her chair! (Playing the game.) Goodness, where's her chair gone to!?
- (Realizing.) What!?
- (Does she know? Probably.) Who's got my chair?
- majesty! (High horse.) I'm sorry! (Gets up quickly; moves away.) Your
- Shall I get you your pillow? (To C.) Fetch her pillow. (Placating.) There's your chair. Do you want your pillow?
- I want to sit down.
- Yes, yes. Here we go. (B gently lowers A into the vacated arm
- Ω (At bed.) Which pillow?
- (To A.) Are you comfortable? Do you want your pillow?
- (Petulant.) Of course I'm not comfortable; of course I want (Still at the bed; to B.) I don't know which one!

- Here we are; lean forward. (Positions back pillow.) That's a girl. (Takes it.) and this one for the arm. (Takes it; moves toward A.) (Moving to the bed.) It's two, actually, one for the back
- My arm! My arm! Where's the pillow!?
- tinued.) All comfy? Here we go. (Arranges arm pillow.) All comfy? (Silence. Con-
- What?
- Nothing. (A knowing smile to C.)
- And so it goes?
- Un-huh.
- Ω What a production
- You haven't seen anything.
- I bet!
- if I fell? What if I died? (To B.) You can't just leave me in there like that. What
- or you'd raise a racket, and if you died what would it matter? (Considers it; calm.) Well ... if you fell I'd either hear you
- you? again! (Amused at seeing C not amused.) What's the matter with (Pause; then she laughs; true enjoyment.) You can say that
- (Small silence, until she realizes she's being talked to.) Who!?
- Me!? Yes. You.
- What's the matter with mer
- (Amused.) That's what she said.
- That's what I said.
- (Panicking a little.) What are you all doing ganging up
- (To.A.) Is that what we're doing?
- (Enjoying it greatly.) Maybe!
- (To defend herself.) There's nothing the matter with me.
- (Sour smile.) Well ... you just wait.
- What did she say?
- fect over there. She says there's nothing the matter with her -- Miss Per-
- I didn't say that; that's not what I...!!

- (To B; sincere.) Why is she yelling at mel?
- She's not
- I'm not!
- Now you are.
- You see!? (Confused.) What day is it?
- 'n, It's [whatever day it is in reality].
- A Will he come today? Is today the day he comes?
- No; not today.
- (Whining.) Why not!?
- to do; he probably has a full schedule. (Making nothing of it.) Oh, he probably has something else
- all think you can get away with anything. I'll fix you all. fix all of 'em. They all think they can treat me like this. You he never stays. (A sudden shift in tone to hatred.) I'll fix him; I'll (Teary.) He never comes to see me, and when he does
- (To B; an aside.) Is it always like this?
- (Overly patient.) No ... it's often very pleasant
- expect, me and my sister. She prepared us and somebody had being a girl back then ... why am I talking about this!? wasn't easy. We knew we'd have to make our own way, and was different then. We didn't have a lot, and being a girl to. I mean, we were girls and that was way back then, and it ful, she said; they all want something; she taught me what to doesn't want something. My mother taught me that; be care-(Muttering now.) You all want something; there's nobody
- Because you want to.
- me; I could tell that. It only took six weeks. scared to death. I lied; I said I rode. He didn't care; he wanted one was a whore, the second one was a drunk. He was funnyl it; that's too bad. I could; I did. I met him at a party, and he He said, let's go riding in the park, and I said all right ... said he'd seen me before. He'd been married twice - the first the world, for men, for making our own way. Sis couldn't do That's right. She tried to prepare us ... for going out in
- Good girl!
- we had saddle horses; we rode. We had horses when we were married; we had a stable;

- (Mildly.) Hoity-toity.
- I learned to ride and I was very good.
- (Encouraging.) I'm sure!
- Ü (Mildly contemptuous.) How are you sure!?
- Shhhhhhh.
- go with me and we would ride every morning, and the Daland I drove ponies - hackneys - and I loved it all. He would ribbons, and we kept them in a big case down in the ... no, We had good horses and we showed them and we won all the matian would go with us -- what was her name ... Suzie? No. win: we won because we were the best. that was the other house. We kept them. (Pause; reinvigorating platters. We knew all the judges but that's not why we would herself.) And cups. All the silver cups we won, and bowls, and (Childlike enthusiasm.) I rode sidesaddle and I rode astride,
- (Under her breath.) Of course.
- (Sotto voce.) Be decent.
- horses! I knew all the judges, and I'd go in the ring when we were in the championships, and I'd sit there and I'd watch ships; Earl did that; he was our rider. I would sit there and me, and they almost always did, I'd signal. I'd take my hat off tell me if we'd won, and we almost always did, and if they told had a famous stable, and when the judging was done they'd watch with the judges. They all knew me; we were famous; we the horses — I never rode when we were in the championand I'd touch my hair. (Does it: touches hair.) and that way (Dismissive.) Oh, she'll learn. (Back to the memory.) We had
- they'd know we'd won. (To B; whispers.) Who!? (B shrugs, keeps her eyes on A.)
- my derby, and petting ... what was her name?, the Dalmatian the stable in the station wagon in my coat and jodhpurs and again.) Oh, I used to love it, riding in the morning, going to times he came with me and sometimes he didn't. Sometimes Suzie, I think ... no — and mounting and riding off. Some-(Very rational; explaining.) Everyone in our box. (Childish
- I went off alone.
- Her husband, most likely. (To A.) Did you ride when you (To B.) Who?

were little?

- A. (A little deprecating laugh.) No. We were poor.
- C. (To A.) Poor? Really ... "poor"?
- A. Well, no; not really poor; my father was an architect; he designed furniture; he made it.
- That's not an architect, that's ...
- b. Let it be.
- A. He made such beautiful furniture; he was an architect. Strict, but fair. No, my mother was strict. No, they were both strict. And fair. (This confuses her; she cries.)
- Now, now.
- I don't know what I'm saying! What am I saying?
- B. (Comforting.) You're taking about horses; you were talking about riding, and we asked: when you were a little girl ...
- A. (Rational; tough.) We never rode; the neighbors had a horse but we never rode it. I don't think my sister ever rode. But I can't swim. (Conspiratorial whisper.) She drank.
- C. When she was a little girl?
- . Oh, please!
- 4. (Truly innocent.) What? What are we talking about?
- B. Horses. You didn't ride when you were a little girl.
- A. You rode if you were a farmer or if you were rich.
- C. (Mildly mocking.) Or if you were a rich farmer.
- B. Shhhhhhh.
- (Of C, to B.) She'll learn. (To C; ominous.) Won't you?
- C. (Flustered laugh.) Well, I dare say.
- A. (Story again.) I wasn't rich until I got married, and I wasn't really right then till later. It all adds up. We had saddle horses; we rode. I learned to ride and I was very good. I rode side-saddle and I rode astride, and I drove ponies hackneys ...
- ... and you loved it all.
- B. Shhhhhhh.
- A. And I what?
- C. You loved it all.
- B. You loved it all.
- . I did?
- So you say.
- A. (Laughs.) Well, then, it must be true. I didn't like sex much, but I had an affair.

- C. (Interested.) Oh?
- (Suddenly suspicious.) What! What do you want!?
- B. She doesn't want anything.
- A. (Off again.) We used to ride. He would go with me not all the time. Sometimes I would go off alone, or with the dog, part way, never too far from the stable; she had a cat she was in love with. She'd go back, but I'd go on. I had my jodhpurs and my coat and my switch and my derby hat. I always rode in all my costume. Never go out except you're properly dressed, I always say. I'd drive the station wagon from the house I loved to drive. I was good at it. I was good at everything; I had to be; he wasn't. I'd drive in the station wagon to the stable, and Earl would be there, or ... or one of the stable boys: Tom ... or Bradley. (Long pause.) Am I doing in my panties!? (Starts to cry.)
- B. (Leisurely.) Well ... let's see. (Goes to A.) Upseedaisey! (B raises A, who whimpers; cries more. B feels under her. Continued.) Nope, but I bet you're going to. Off you go. (B helps A off.)
  C. Hold the fort? (C goes to window; looks out; looks at bed;
- C. Hold the fort? (C goes to window; looks out; looks at bed; goes to it; smoothes the covers. B re-enters. Continued.) Why am I doing this?
- B. Because it's unnecessary? Because I've already done it?
- C. The princess and the pea, maybe? What's wrong with her arm?
- B. She fell and broke it. It didn't heal. Mostly they don't at that age. They put pins in it, metal pins; the bone disintegrates around the pins and the arm just hangs there. They want to take it off.
- C. What!?
- B. (Matter of fact.) The arm; they want to take the arm off.
- C. (Protest.) No!
- B. (Shrugs.) It hurts.
- C. Still!
- B. She won't let them.
- C. I shouldn't think so.
- B. What do you know? She makes us go into the city once a week to see the surgeon, the one who set it, the one who appears onstage again, hooting and giggling, followed by B.) do I have to do — take everything away from you? Huh!? (A bad girl! (Off-stage, A hoots and cackles. Continued, off-stage.) What Now, why did you do that!? You naughty, naughty girl! Bad, promised me; you were there; you heard him." (A crack of glass you heard him." I think she says that every other day: "He things she never forgets. "He promised me; you were there; ing she'll forget? Probably; but she won't. There are some won't let anyone else do it either, and he promises - assummakes him promise that he'll never take the arm off, and and he waffles, and he looks at me and I'm no help, and she surgeon — it's so much better, and she wants him to agree, and the bone is gone more, and she tells the old guy - the them x-ray it, and look at it, and each time the pins are looser, trusts him, she says. She goes in once a week, and she makes wants to take it off. God!, he's almost as old as she is. She from off-stage. Continued.) Oh, God! (She exits. From off-stage now.,

A. (Drifting, hobbling; very happy; to C.) I broke the glass! I took the glass and I threw it down in the sink! I broke the glass and now she has to clean it up! (B has re-entered.)

B. Bad girl!

A. I broke the glass! I broke the glass! (Giggles; suddenly her face collapses and she cries; then.) I have to sit down! I can't sit down by myself! Why won't somebody help me!?

. (Helping her.) Now, now; here we go.

A. Owl Owl

All right, now.

. (Under her breath.) Jesus!

(To C; settling A.) You're a big help.

(Cold.) I didn't know I was supposed to be.

(Sneers.) Just here from the lawyer, eh?

Yes; just here from the lawyer.

1. (Suddenly suspiciously alert.) What? What did you say?

B. (Matter of fact.) I said — well, what I implied was, since she's here from the lawyer, why should she behave like a human being; why should she be any help; why should she ...

. (To C; happy.) You're from Harry?

No; Harry's dead; Harry's been dead for years.

4. (Tears again.) Harry's dead? When did Harry die?

C. (Loud.) Thirty years ago!

A. (Tiny pause; crying stops.) Well, I knew that. What are you talking about Harry for?

C. You asked if I'd come from Harry; you asked ...

A. I wouldn't do anything that stupid.

3. (Amused; for C.) And so it goes.

A. (Clarifying it for the world.) Harry used to be my lawyer, but that was years ago. Harry died — what? Thirty years ago? — Harry died. Now his son's the lawyer. I go to him, well, he comes to me; sometimes I go to him.

Yes; you do. And yes he does.

.. Why are you here?

C. (Sighs.) Some things have been ... misplaced; aren't being done. Some things ...

(Panic.) Somebody's stealing things!?

C. No no no no. We send you papers to sign and you don't sign them; we call you and you don't call back; we send you checks to sign and you don't sign them; things like that.

. I don't know what you're talking about.

C. Well ...

A. None of it's true! You're lying! Get Harry on the phone!

C. Harry is ...

B. (To A.) Excuse me? The "T'll get to it" pile?
A (Surfaceus of R now) What!?

A. (Suspicious of B now.) What!?

B. (Calm.) The "I'll get to it" pile?

I don't know what you're talking about.

C. (To B.) Papers? Checks?

B. (Broad.) Oh ... lots of stuff.

A. (Adamant.) There's nothing!

C. (To B.) What is there? What is it?

B. (To A, patiently.) You have a drawer full; the bills come and you look at them, and some of them you send on and they get paid, and some of them you say you can't remember and so you don't send them, and ...

A. (Defiant.) Why would I send in a bill for something I never (Shuts eyes briefly.) And they send you your checks - to sign? To pay bills? And some of them you sign because you remember what they were for, but some of them — some of the checks — you can't remember?

- . I what!?
- B. (Smiles tolerantly.) ... you don't remember what they're for and so you don't sign them and you put them in the drawer.
- A. So?
- . (Shrugs.) These things pile up.
- 1 see; 1 see.
- A. Everybody out there's ready to rob me blind. I'm not made of money, you know.
- B. (Laughs.) Yes, you are. (To C.) Isn't she?
- . (Smiles.) More or less.
- A. (Conspiratorially.) They'd steal you blind if you didn't pay attention: the help, the stores, the markets, that little Jew makes my furs what's her name? She's nice. They all rob you blind if you so much as turn your back on them. All of them!
- C. We've asked you: let all your bills come to us; we'll know what to do; let me bring you your checks every month; I'll stay here while you sign them. Whatever you like.
- A. (A superior smile, but hesitant around the edges.) None of you think I can handle my own affairs? I've done it for ... when he was so sick I did it all; I did all the bills; I did all the checks; I did everything.
- G. (Gentle.) But now you don't have to.
- A. (Proud.) I didn't have to then: I wanted to I wanted everything to be right and I do now; I still do!
- C. Well, of course you do.
- B. Of course you do.
- A. (Ending it; superior.) And so I'll handle my own affairs, thank you.
- C. (Defeated; shrugs.) Well; certainly.
- B. And I'll watch you pretend to handle them.
- A. And I watch you, every one of you. I used to love horses.
- B. It's just people you don't like.
- A. (Noncommittal.) Oh? Is that it? We rode Western saddle too. It was when he almost died — the first time, the first time I was with him. He had a blood infection. He was hunting, they were all hunting, and a gun went off and it hit him in the arm, the shoulder. (Touches hers; realizes the parallel; smiles sadly.) My God! (Pause.) They shot him in the shoulder, and they didn't get all the bullet out, and it got infected and his arm swelled up like a balloon and they lanced it and it burst and there was pus all over ...

- C. Stop!
- . (Cold.) Why? What's it to you? (C shudders.)
- A. ... and they put drains in it and there weren't any medicines then ...
- B. No antibiotics, you mean.
- A. What?
- B. No antibiotics.
- A. Yes, and it wouldn't go away and it would get worse, and everybody said he was going to die, but I wouldn't let him! I said No! he is not going to die! I told that to the doctors, and I told him that, too, and he said all right, he would try, if I would sleep with him, if I wouldn't leave him alone at night, be next to him, and I did and it smelled so awful—the pus, the rot, the ...
- C. Don't! Please!
- A. ... and they said take him to the desert, bake his arm in the hot sun, and so we went there we went to Arizona and he sat in the baking sun all day his arm oozing, and stinking, and splitting and ... in six months it went away and the arm went down in size and there was no more pus and he was saved except for the scars, all the scars, and I learned to ride Western saddle.
- B. My, my.
- A. And it was outside of Phoenix Camelback Mountain; we used to ride out into the desert. And the movie star was there the one who married the young fellow who ran the studio; she had eyes of a different color.
- C. (Small pause.) She had what?
- A. She had eyes of a different color: one eye was blue, or something, and the other one was green, I think.

- (To B.) Who was this? (B shrugs.)
- big head. I think she drank too. Oh, she was a big star; she was tiny and she had a very
- You think everyone drinks. Merle Oberon?
- No; of course not! You know!
- Trevor? (Enjoying this a little.) How long ago was this? Claire
- tiny! She had two eyes! Oh ... when I was there; when we were there. She was
- In the thirties?
- walk; it was so hot. He told me. Probably. She had a son; she cooked an egg on the side-
- (Lost.) Her ... son ... told you?
- other children: the chewing-gum twins; that one No! Ours! He was a little boy, too; he played with all the
- That must have been before the war.
- Which one!?
- Civil.
- Thalberg; he was a real smart little Jew. (Triumphant.) Thalberg! That's who she married. Arnold
- (To A.) Irving; Irving Thalberg. (To C; ironic.) All smart Jews are little. Have you noticed?
- (Cold.) I'm a democrat; I notice a lot of things.
- B. Most of us are; most of us do. But still, it's fascinating, isn't it grisly, but fascinating. She doesn't mean anything by it — or if she did, once, she doesn't now. It just falls out.
- (Joyous.) Norma Shearer!
- Of course!
- Who?
- (Laughs.) What's the matter with all you people!?
- (Explaining.) We're democrats.
- What?
- Well, you asked what the matter was
- Don't you get fresh!
- "Don't you get fresh!" My God! I haven't heard that in a long time. (Imitates.)
- get fresh! To Sis and me. She made us eat everything she put My mother would say that to me all the time: don't you father; no, that was both of them. (A little girl whine.) They're ing a grownup was. She was strict but fair. No, that was our dead; Sis, they're dead! before us, and wash the dishes; she made us know what be-

- A small little Jew?
- At least she didn't say kike.
- made us wash everything we wore the night we wore it, by notes, and take little gifts whenever we went somewhere, and had to do hers, too. She made us be proper young ladies. hand, before we went to bed. Sometimes Sis wouldn't and I (Back to her memory.) She would make us write thank-you
- And go to church twice a day? And pray a lot?
- about it very much. We took it for granted, I suppose. (To B.) How much did you steal? What? Oh, yes, we went to church but we didn't talk
- (Not rising to it.) When?
- Whenever.
- (Drawling.) Well, I waited until you were asleep ...
- I never sleep.
- went into the silver closet and took down all the big silver bowls, and I stuck them up under my skirt, and I waddled out ... until you were pretending to be asleep, and then I
- A. Joke about it if you want to. (A sudden fit of giggles.) You into the hall ... must have looked funny!
- (Playing along.) Well, I suppose.
- Waddling out like that; you probably clanked, too.
- Yes; I'm sure I did. Clank, clank.
- don't think anything's funny, do you? (Hoots.) Clank, clank! (Notices C isn't amused; tough.) You
- most hilarious unpaid bills, anti-Semitism, senility, or ... Oh, yes; I'm just trying to decide what I think's really the
- Now, now. Play in your own league, huh?
- (Miffed.) Well! I'm sorry!
- (Looks right at C.) I'll have to talk to Harry about you.
- Harry's dead; Harry's been dead for years.
- don't have any friends anymore; most of them are dead, and (With increasing self-absorption.) I know; so's everybody. I moved away or I don't see anymore. the ones aren't dead are dying, and the ones aren't dying have

- of them anymore anyway. (Comforting.) Well, what does it matter? You don't like any
- time, and what right do they have to ... to ... more — who likes anybody anymore? — you've put in all that take people as friends and you spend time at it, you put efto like them, to have them with you. Isn't it a contract? You fort in it, and it doesn't matter if you don't like them any (Uncomplicated agreement.) That's true. But you're supposed
- (Incredulous.) To die?!
- What!?
- What right do they have to die?
- No! To not be what they were
- To change, you mean?
- (Gently.) Let her alone.
- dies; family goes away. Nobody should do this! Look at Sis! Bradleys! The Phippses! They die; they go away. And family No! No right! You count on them! And they change. The
- What about her?
- me ... no: brighter, two years younger. My sister was a drunk. (Not friendly.) She was smarter than
- (Smiles.) Or five, or seven.
- What!?
- Nothing.
- we were growing up. Only then; she missed more boats than you can shake a stick at. She always got better grades, had more beaux - when
- (Examining her nails.) I've never shook a stick at a boat.
- (Dry.) Well, maybe you should give it a try. Shaken; not
- gave us some of theirs, some from the garage. He made the ous, I suppose. It was furnished, but he didn't like it, so he and we had a tiny little apartment, and our mother and our most beautiful furniture: he was an architect. We went out all the time — looking for jobs, jobs that a young lady could acfather came to see it, to be sure it was all right, not danger-We came to the city together, after she finished school were wearing each other's. Is that what I mean? we went out with them together a lot - wouldn't know we us. She was a little shorter, but not much. We kept a list so had a little allowance, but a very little one, nothing to spoil so we could wear each other's clothes; that saved money. We cept — being escorted out at night. We were the same size, the boys -- the young men, the men -- who took us out --

- Yes; I think so; most probably.
- Keep awake.
- big feet. (Silence.) You'd better wear the beads." We had a regular list. We had "No, no, I wore that at the Plaza; don't you remember?
- (About the non sequitur.) What!?
- They had big feet.
- have big feet? We had big feet. I still do ... I guess. (To B.) Do I still
- Yes; yes, you do.
- abbreviate," or "Your sister said the same thing," if she didn't of us one. They had to be newsy, and long, and she'd send used to confide a lot, and laugh, and .... Mother made us write like them. Or spelling. Sis couldn't spell. She drank. them back to us with things like "That's not true," or "Don't twice a week - or call, later. We tried sending letters together — one letter together — but she'd make us send two — each Well, I'd never know. I think we liked each other. We
- (Incredulous.) Your mother!?
- What? No, of course not. My sister!
- Of course.
- Even then?
- When you ... when you first came to the city,
- they're in season. It's the least he can do. And he knows it! some, sometimes, when he comes. Or flowers - freesia, when champagne and nibble on candied orange rind. He brings me when we went out — before the speakeasies. We would drink No, of course not! Later. Well, we'd have champagne
- (To B; an aside.) Who? Who is this?
- (Absorbed with A.) Shhhhhhhh. Her son. He brings her preny mings.

- A. We'd go out, but we didn't take each other's boyfriends She was prim; I liked ... wilder men, I suppose.
- C. Tsk, tsk, tsk.
- B. (To C, amused.) Why? Don't you?
- A. We never liked the same boys ... men. I don't think she liked men very much. Well, I know she didn't sex, anyway. We had to make her get married, when she was almost forty get someone for her. I don't think she wanted him; he was a wop.
- C. (Shakes her head.) I don't believe it sometimes.
- B. (Sharp, as A tries to adjust herself in her chair.) Why not? Wop, nigger, kike? I told you: it doesn't mean anything. It's the way she learned things.
- C. From these strict but fair parents. (B shrugs.)
- A. (She has heard.) I have Jewish friends and I have Irish friends, and I have South American friends I did. Not Puerto Rican, or like that, but Venezuelan, and Cuban. Oh, we loved to go to Havana.
- 1. (To B, more or less.) Another world, eh?
- 3. Uh-huh.
- A. I've never known any colored well, help, yes. In Pinehurst they had colored help and we used to visit them there. They knew their place; they were polite, and well-behaved; none of those uppity niggers, the city ones.
- . (Dismay.) Oh, Jesus Christ!
- A. He keeps telling me I can't say these things. I don't know what things he means. He said once he wouldn't come to see me anymore if I said those things. I don't know what things he means. What did he mean?
- B. Don't worry yourself. Your sister married an Italian.
- A. (Confused.) She did ... what? Oh, that was later. I always had my eye out for the right man.
- .. And she didn't?
- A. No; she always thought everything would fall right into her lap. And it did; a lot. I had to work for everything; nothing came my way. I was tall and handsome; she was tall and pretty, tall but shorter, not as tall as I am ... was. (Weeps.) I've shrunk!

I'm not tall! I used to be so tall! Why have I shrunk!?

- B. (To A; patient.) It happens with time: we get shorter. It happens every day, too: we're taller in the morning than we are at night.
- A. (Still weeping.) How!?
- B. The spine compresses as the day goes on.
- A. (Even weepier.) I don't have one. I used to have a spine; I don't have one anymore!
- C. (To B; sotto voce.) What does she mean?
- B. She means osteoporosis.
- A. (To C; ugly; weeping down to sniveling.) It hasn't happened to you yet? You wait!
- B. ... the spine collapses; you can fracture it by walking, turning around ... whatever.
- .. (Weepy again.) I used to be tall! I've shrunk
- C. (To B.) I know. (B smiles.)
- A. (Off again.) He was short. A lot of my beaux were tall, but he was short.
- C. (Sotto voce; to B.) Who is this?
- B. (Also sotto voce.) Her husband, I think.
- C. Oh; that's a long time ago.
- A. Oh, I knew such tall boys, such dancers. Sis and I would dance all night with all the tall boys. Some of them were show boys they were fairies but some of them were regular. We would dance the night away; and sometimes I'd go off.
- B. (Smiling.) Naughty girl!
- A. I was the wild one. Sis would say to me, How can you do that!? and I'd laugh and I'd say, Oh, come on! I liked to have a good time, but I had my eye out. I always had my eye out. (A shift of tone toward bitter.) If I don't have my eye out, who will? I've always had to be on my toes, them sneaking around, stealing and ... conniving. If I didn't keep my eye out we wouldn't have had anything. His sister! That one she married? The first one! The dumpy little ... dentist was he? What did he know about running an office? What did he know about pockets. And of course the old man kept his head turned the other way because the what's his name, the dentist was married to his precious daughter! Oh that one! Whining and finagling, wrapping him around her little finger! I had to stay one step ahead of all of them. I fixed 'em.

- B. (Proud of her.) Did you?
- A. (Confused.) What!?
- B. Did you fix them?
- A. (Panicking.) Who!? Who are you talking about!?
- The ones you fixed.
- A. How do I know? I don't know what you're talking about! Fix who!?
- . I don't know.
- . (To help.) The ones who were robbing you blind.
- 3. (To A.) Yes: those.
- A. (Grim.) Everybody's robbing me right and left. Everybody steals. Everybody steals something.
- B. (Without comment.) Including me? Do I steal?
- A. (Nervous laugh.) I don't know. How would I know? He says I should have more money.
- . (To C.) Doesn't your office...?
- C. We deal with what comes in. There's more than one handles her money. There's plenty of chance, if anyone wanted to
- A. Sis used to envy me after I married. She never did well.
- I always had my eye out. C. You use all your income as far as I can see.
- A. Well, why not? It's mine.
- C. Well, just don't complain. If you wanted an increase in principal, you'd have to ...
- A. I don't complain: I never complain. I have you, and I have her, (Points to B.) and I have the chauffeur, and I have this place here, and I have to look pretty, and sometimes I have the nurses though they're black. Why is that? and I have all those things ... I have the cook, I have the ...
- . I know; I know.
- . They all steal; every one of them.
- B. (After a pause; a sigh.) Ah, well.
- A. Sis didn't have her eye out; not like I did. I married him. He was short; he had one eye; one was glass; a golf ball hit him there; they took it out; he had a glass one.

- C. Which eye?
- . (To C; chiding.) Oh, come on!
- C. (Amused.) No, I want to know. (To A.) Which eye? Which eye was glass?
- A. Which eye was...? Well, I don't ... (Becomes weepy.) I can't remember! I don't know which eye was the glass one! (Full weep.) I ... can't ... remember! ... can't ... remember!
- B. (Moves to A; to comfort.) Now, now; now, now.
- A. I can't remember! (Sudden venom.) Get your hands off me! How dare you!
- B. (Retreating.) Sorry, sorry.
- A. (To B; tearful again.) Why can't I remember anything?
- B. I think you remember everything; I think you just can't bring it to mind all the time.
- A. (Quieting.) Yes? Is that it?
- B. Of course!
- A. I remember everything
- B. Somewhere in there.
- (Laughs.) My gracious! (To C.) I remember everything!
- C. Gracious. That must be a burden.
- B. Be nice.
- C. Isn't salvation forgetting? Lethe, and all?
- A. Who?
- B. No one.
- C. Lethe.
- A. I don't know her. Well, maybe I do, I just don't have it right now. (To B.) Is that right?
- B. That's right.
- A. I loved my husband. (Silly, remembering smile.)
- B. I bet you did.
- A. He gave me pretty things; he gave me jewelry.
- B. Them's pretty.
- A. My God, he said, you're so big, so tall, you'll cost me a fortune! I can't give you little things. And he couldn't. I liked pearls and diamonds best.
- . No kidding!
- (Amused.) Oh, hush!

A. I had my pearls, and I had some bracelets, and he wanted me to have another — he'd found one without telling me. We wore wide bracelets back then — diamond ones — wide, this wide. (She demonstrates: two inches, or so.) Flat and wide, the stones in designs, very ... what? Very what?

3. Ornate.

A. Yes, ornate ... and wide. We had been out — I'll never forget it, I'll never forget this — we'd been to a party, and we'd had champagne, and we were ... what? Tipsy?, a little I suppose. And we came home and we were on the way to bed. We had our big bedroom, and it had its separate dressing rooms, and — you know — its separate bathrooms — and we were undressing; we were getting ready for bed. I was at my table, and I'd taken off my clothes — my shoes, my dress, and my underthings — and I was sitting there at my dressing table (She really enjoys telling this: laughs, giggles, etc.) and I was ... well, I was naked; I didn't have a stitch, except I had on all my jewelry. I hadn't taken off my jewelry.

. How wonderful!

A. Yes!, and there I was, all naked with my pearls — my necklace — and my bracelets, my diamond bracelets ... two, no; three! Three! And in he walked, naked as a jaybird — he was funny when he wanted to be — we were naked a lot, early on, pretty early on. All that stopped. (Pause.) Where am I?

B. In your story?

A. What

In your story. Where are you in your story?

. Yes; of course.

C. You're naked at your dressing table, and he walks in, and he's naked, too.

A. ... as a jaybird; yes! Oh, I shouldn't tell this!

B. Yes! Yes, you should!

C. Ye

A. Yes? Oh ... well, there I was, and I had my big powder puff, and I was powdering myself, and I was paying attention to that. I knew he was there, but I wasn't paying attention. I have something for you, he said, I have something for you. And I was sitting there, and I raised my eyes and looked in the mirror and ... no! I can't tell this!

B and C. (Silly schoolgirls; ad lib.) Yes, yes; tell, tell. Tell us!

Yes! Tell us!

A. And I looked and there he was, and his ... his pee-pee was all hard, and ... and hanging on it was a new bracelet.

C. (Awe.) Oh, my God! (B smiles.)

of my dressing room. (Long silence; finally she weeps, slowly, coninto my lap. Keep it, he said, and he turned and walked out I can't do that! And he stood there for ... well, I don't know might like it. And I said, No! I can't do that! You know I can't moved closer, to my face, and Do you want it? I thought you little ... you know ... and there was the bracelet on it, and he shouldn't say that; that's terrible to say, but I know. He had a his pee-pee, and I turned, and he had a little pee-pee. Oh, I thing. Do you want it? he said, and he poked me with it, with touched my shoulder — he was short, and I was tall, or somelittle toward darkness.) And he came closer, and his pee-pee it? he said. Yes, yes! I said, Oh, goodness, yes! (Mood shifts a said. Oh, my goodness, it's so beautiful, I said. Do you want it was wide, so wide and ... I thought you might like this, he the most beautiful bracelet I'd ever seen; it was diamonds, and bracelet slid off, and it fell into my lap. I was naked; deep ... and his pee-pee got ... well, it started to go soft, and the do that! And I couldn't; I could never do that, and I said, No! clusively.) And it was on his pee-pee, and he came close and it was

B. (Eventually.) It's all right; it's all right. (Goes and comforts

A.)

C. (Kindly.) The wild one.

B. (Still comforting.) It's all right; it's all right.

A. (Little child.) Take me to bed; take me to bed.

B. Sure. (To C.) Help me. (They ease her up from her chair and to the bed during the following.)

A. (Screams.) My arm! My arm!

C. (Terrified.) I'm sorry!

A. Bed! I wanna go to bed!

B. All right now; we're almost there. (At bed.) O.K. Here we are.

- (Full baby.) I wanna go to bed! (It hurts!) Oh! Oh! Oh!
- part way. Continued.) There. Comfy? All right, now. (A is now on the bed, under covers, sitting
- (To B.) I'm sorry; I didn't mean to ...
- (To C.) It's all right. (To A.) Comfy?
- (Tiny voice.) Yes. Thank you.
- (As she moves away from the bed.) You're welcome.
- I'm not good at ... all that.
- You'll get there.
- I can't project.
- enough you won't have to; you'll be there (Comforting.) Well, think of it this way: if you live long
- to project. if we get to the future - you'll remember not being able And since it's the far past we're supposed to recall best
- As I said: thanks.
- (Pause; sighs.) A-ha.
- (Pause.) What happens now?
- (Eyes closed.) You tell me.
- (Smiles; eyes still closed.) As I said: you tell me. (Silence.) You're the one works here.
- do and the things we're not. What we remember doing and wandering; very stream of consciousness.) The things we're able to (Propped up; eyes opening and closing from time to time, eyes
- I know. (Cries a little.) He never comes to see me. goes. I think they're all robbing me. I know they are, but I can't prove it. I think I know, and then I can't remember what my class, taller than the boys. I remember, and it comes and what we're not sure. What do I remember? I remember being tall. I remember first it making me unhappy, being taller in
- (Mildly.) Yes, he does.
- When he has to; now and then.
- More than most; he's a good son.
- me things; he brings me flowers -- orchids, freesia, those big violets...? (Tough.) Well, I don't know about that. (Softer.) He brings
- African.

- does that. But he doesn't love me. - orange rind in chocolate, that dark chocolate I like; he Yes. He brings me those, and he brings me chocolates
- if I love him. I can't remember! he has. You don't know! He doesn't love me and I don't know He doesn't! He loves his ... he loves his boys, those boys
- He loves you.
- thing! can't remember. (Suddenly alert and self-mocking.) Isn't that some-(Near tears.) I can't remember; I can't remember what I
- (Nicely.) It certainly is.
- she could; where else could she go? Did we like each other night-things where she thought I wouldn't find them when she over, gazes at A, feels her pulse.) A is still, eyes open. Has she shuddered a little before her silence? Af-Sis hated me; Ma hated me; all those others, they hated me; they all hated me, because I was strong, because I had to be. room stank; she stank; I hate you, she screamed at me. I think I'm helpless she ... she screamed; I hate you! She stank; her even? At the end? Not at the end, not when she hated me. way she did. Mother coming to stay, to live with us; he said came to stay with me for a little; falling ... falling down the came on me. Sis being that way, hiding her bottles in her for everything; he wouldn't do it; I had to do everything; tell ter a bit B and C look at one another. B rises, goes to the bed, leans he left home; he ran away. Because I was strong. I was tall and him how handsome he was, clean up his blood. Everything I was strong. Somebody had to be. If I wasn't, then ... (Silence; (Rambling again.) There's so much: holding on; fighting
- (Looks over after a little.) Is she ... oh, my God, is she dead?
- (After a little.) No. She's alive. I think she's had a stroke.
- Oh, my God!
- right, looking at A as she exits; B strokes A's head, exits left. A alone, You better call her son. I'll call her doctor. (C rises, exits

END OF ACT ONE

act life mask of the actress playing A; same costume as A's over nose and mouth helps this.) in Act One. We must believe it to be A; a breathing mask "A" is propped up in bed. (Actually, a dummy with an ex-were. C seats herself. B goes to the bed, looks at "A." end of Act One and dressed differently from the way they Some silence. B and C enter, opposite from their exits at the

- (General.) No change.
- (Wistful.) No?
- That's the way it goes
- C in (Shudders.) Yes?
- C in Continued.) No? (Grim.) Something to look forward to. (No response from
- about it. Let me alone. Ç (Hard.) I don't want to talk about it; I don't want to think
- B (Sharp.) It's worth thinking about — even at your age
- Let me alone!
- a curb into a sixty-mile-an-hour wall ... tain with a jet." No? (No response. Continued.) Or ... walking off ... stroke, cancer or, as the lady said, "heading in to the moun-(Wandering about; touching things.) It's got to be some way
- sitting there in the upstairs sitting room ... evening, servants off, him out, at the Club, sitting home alone, the window jimmied, they get in, little cat feet and all, find you, Or ... even worse; think about this ... home alone in the
- I said: stop it!
- throat's being slit, if that, if there's time for that. behind me, slit my throat, me thinking, Oh, my God, my room, going over invitations, or whatever ... bills; come up (Smiles.) ... find me sitting there in the upstairs sitting
- (Animal growl of protest.) Arghhhhhhhhh!
- (Tranquil.) I'm almost done. Or I hear them ... you hear

- blood on the Chinese rug. My, my. throat, though they may not have planned it that way. All that fall apart, start screaming, so they have to slit your throat, my them, turn around, see them - how many? Two? Three? -
- (Pause; curious.) Chinese rug?
- the edges. We get it at auction. (Very natural.) Yes, beige, with rose embroidery all around
- I wouldn't know.
- ter. throat, or mine, for that matter. (Considers it.) Might be betwill, though — the rug, I mean. Clearly nobody slits your (Momentary surprise.) No; of course not; you wouldn't. You
- Ü pose. (Rue and helplessness.) You have things to tell me, I sup-
- thing either, do IPI (Gestures towards "A".) Oh, I certainly do. But, then again, I don't know every-
- me go on if I get like that. (She looks, too.) I'll do a will; I'll do some paper won't let
- get your way in this world. (A enters during this next, from left. A is dressed in a lovely, lavender dress; sling gone.) There aren't any ... weren't any then, I tried. You can't
- then you can't at the last? There must be! There must be one. You have your way in everything and
- Act. B and C are not surprised to see her.) There must be what? (She is thoroughly rational during this
- A living will.
- slipped my mind, or something. He kept saying, Make one! to do about it now. Any change? He has one for himself, he says. I meant to; nothing much (Observing "A".) I was going to, but then I forgot, or it's
- No, we're ... just as we were; no change.
- breathed for, pissed for. her name took six years; not a move, not a blink, hooked up, I wonder how long this'll go on. I hope it's quick. What's
- Do I know her?
- No; after your time, so to speak.
- A lot of money a lot. The kids hah! Fifty the young-sides - kill her off! keep her going! Not pretty. the lawyer wouldn't show it to 'em, they came down on both est - the "kids" disagreed. They wanted to see the will first,

- (Really beside herself.) Stop it! Stop it!
- (To a naughty child.) Grow ... up
- (Smiles.) She will; she does.
- Well; yes; of course. And so do you.
- (Rage.) I will not become ... that! (Points to "A".)
- "Come off it".) Oh, really.
- ("Oh, really!") Come off it.
- I won't.
- (Amused.) Yes; that's interesting. (Smiles.) What do you plan to do about it?
- Ü (To A; pointing to B.) Nor will I become this.
- ence. A and B relax, comment from time to time, react with each other, (A hoot.) Hah! (C comes down front and speaks to the audi-
- six; I'm a good girl; my mother was strict but fair she still night we go out with our beaux, and I do have my eye out is; she loves me; she loves me and Sis, and she wants the very A shakes her head, chuckles. Continued.) Nobody could. I'm twentyfor ... for what — "the man of my dreams"? And so does Sis, best for us. We have a nice little apartment, Sis and I, and at (Points to "A".) ... thing there? I'll never be like that. (B hoots; I guess. I don't think I've been in love, but I've been loved — by a couple of them, but they weren't the right ones. I won't I know I won't — that's what I mean. That ...
- (Rue; to herself.) They never are.
- (Purring.) Hmmmm.
- again, and that's fun too, though Sis doesn't think so as much quins: the fanciest shop in town! I have my eye out, and we do have our jobs. We're manneas I do. They get involved, but they never get very ... serious. sun up sometimes. Things get a little ... involved now and fun with the others - dancing, staying out late, seeing the Mother taught us what the right one would be. We have
- I don't want that known!
- (To B; pleasantly chiding.) Oh, stop; it was fun

- we stop, and they touch our dresses the silk, the fabric so; B imitates; A, too, but sitting. Continued; to A and B.) We do! group, to another section. We twirl, we ... sashay. and they ask us questions, and then we pass on to another dies shopping, sometimes with their men, sometimes not, and we walk elegantly around the store, (Imitates.) among the la-We go into work and we put on these lovely frocks, and (She does
- Oh, I know.
- Yes, we know; do we know.
- doing it the husbands, or whatever. we ... well, I suppose we flirt a little with the men who are there are people looking at us, studying us, and we smile, and ten to them. (A and B laugh a little. Continued.) We wear our beautiful evening gowns, and we parade about, and we know (To the audience again.) Don't look at them; don't ... lis-
- (To A; mock astonishment.) Flirt?! You!?
- Mel? Flirtl?
- (Sashays; twirls.) Wheeeee!
- (Claps with one hand; her knee, probably.) Braval Braval
- (Still sashaying.) Wheeeeee!
- Ω Stop it! Stay out of my life!
- Oh! My dear!
- more ... design. I remember a little calculation. (To C.) I remember it differently, little one. I remember

Oh, yes; a little calculation; a little design.

(To audience.) Don't listen to them. Design? What are they

- talking about?
- (Cheerful.) Never mind. (To audience.) They don't know me
- (Looking at A; mocking.) Nooooooooo
- Remember me!
- ears, shuts her eyes. Continued.) Oh, all right, dear; go on. (C can't hear. Continued; louder.) I said, go on! (Also mocking.) Noooooooooo (C claps her hands over her
- (Loud.) She says go on!, honestly.
- I am a ... good ... girl.
- (To A.) Well, yes; I suppose so
- And not dumb.

- striking; I know how to do it. Sis slouches and caves her front in; I stand tall, breasts out, chin up, hands ... just so. I walk gin, but I'm a good girl. The boy who took me was a good that there's somebody there. But, I'm a good girl. I'm not a virbetween the aisles and they know there's somebody coming, boy. (C does not necessarily hear - or, at least, notice - the asides I'm a good girl. I know how to attract men. I'm tall; I'm
- to come.)
- Oh, yes he was
- Yes? Was he? You remember.
- (Laughs.) Well, it was a while ago
- But you do remember.
- Oh yes, I remember him. He was ...
- He was beautiful! Ω ... sweet and handsome; no, not handsome: beautiful
- (To B.) He was; yes.
- (To A and herself.) Yes.
- He has coal-black hair and violet eyes and such a smile!
- Ah!
- megaphone on the crew. When I held him when we danced, said; I really like him. Have you told Mother? No, and don't I didn't tell Mother, but I liked him a lot. I like him, Sis, I there was only sinew and muscle. We dated a lot; I liked him; muscle; he fenced, he told me, and he was the one with the you; I like him a lot, but I don't know. Has he? ... you know. me, and he tensed it and I felt it move against me my eyes as we danced, slowly, and I felt the pressure up against while we danced. We were the same height and he looked into that he was hard, that muscle and sinew, pressed against me close, all ... pressed, and ... we were pressed, and I could feel No, I said; no, he hasn't. But then he did. We were dancing - slowly - late, the end of the evening, and we danced so His body was ... well, it was thin, but hard, all sinew and
- (Dreamy.) Whatever is that, I said.
- Hmmmmmmmm.
- Whatever is that, I said. I knew, but whatever is that, I

- and ... well, I knew it was time; I knew I was ready, and I I said. Appropriate, he said, and I felt the muscle move again, him, that I wanted it. knew I wanted him — whatever that meant — that I wanted with you, he said. You have an interesting way of showing it, said, and he smiled, and his eyes shone, and it's me in love
- (Looking back; agreeing.) Yes; oh, yes
- Hmmmmmmmm.
- away like it was nothing. Remember, don't give it away, Mother said; don't give it
- get known as a loose girl. Then who will you marry? (Remembering.) They won't respect you for it and you'll
- (To B.) Is that what she said? I can't remember.
- (Laughs.) Yes you can.
- dance floor, do you? said, you don't want me to embarrass myself right here on the so slowly, as we danced, and he breathed on my neck and he and he smiled at me and he moved his hips as we danced, same height — and he was so beautiful, and his eyes shone, me, exactly against where he wanted to be - we were the loose girl. Then who will you marry? But he was pressed against They won't respect you for it and you'll get known as a
- (Remembering.) No, no; of course not.
- of girl. stupid, so ... expected. Yes, you are, he said; you're that kind of girl? I mean, as soon as I said it I blushed: it was so ... said, and I heard myself saying (Incredulous.) I'm not that kind I said, no, no; of course not. Let's go to my place, he
- And I was, and my God it was wonderful.
- It hurt! (Afterthought; to B.) Didn't it?
- (Admonishing.) Oh ... well, a little.
- be very happy. there've been a few others, and I imagine I'll marry, and I'll but he was wonderful, and I know I'm only twenty-six now and lot. (Shy.) I know it's trite to say your first time is your best, You're that kind of girl, and I guess I was. We did it a
- (Grudging.) Well ...
- We'll talk about happy sometime

- him? He was long and thick and knew what I wanted, what I wanted ... I just couldn't I can't. needed, and while I couldn't do ... you know: the thing he I know I'll be very happy, but will I ever not think about
- (Stretches.) Nope; never could.
- (Sort of dreamy.) I wonder why.
- I choked, and I ... (Whispered.) I threw up. I just ... couldn't. (Very agitated; upset.) I tried! I wanted to do what ... but
- be helped. (To C.) Don't worry about it; don't worry about what can't

- (To the audience; still; simply.) I just want you to know that
- В.
- (Pleasant.) Your husband. We're what twenty-six? We'll

- six when he dies. (To C; smiles.) We have him a good long (Calculating.) I marry when I'm twenty-eight; you're sixty-
- (Musing.) Another fourteen years.
- Yes, but the last six aren't much fun.
- That's almost forty years with one man.
- meet him in two years. I'm a good girl, that I was a good girl. And ... there's more than one way to skin a cat. Hm? (Puzzles that.) Why? Who needs it!? Isn't one way enough? (Puzzles that.) Why not? Why is there more than one way to skin a cat? Hm? Well, yes, he was wonderful, but then there's life. For a long, long time. Well, a man you'll dream about. (Making light of it.) The man of my dreams? (Self-absorbed.) What? Who? (To C.) You meet him in two years. Fifty-two. How long? (To A.) How long? Like the boy I was ... Long enough. (To B.) You're ... what?!

- (To A.) No? Not much fun? (To C; chuckles.) Well, more or less: more or less one man.
- Not much.
- How is he? Have I met him?
- man? The one-eyed man? The little one; the little one-eyed
- A (Chuckles.) Oh, now.
- (Confused.) What?
- him, but I see him looking over at me. The one we meet at the party — Sis and me. Sis is with
- (A pleased recalling.) Yes!
- Sis doesn't much care, I don't think.
- Ω More or less? What is this more or less?
- Hm?
- (Mildly annoyed.) I beg your pardon?
- or less; more or less one man. I said almost forty years with one man; you said, more
- something? Oh? Ah! Well, what are you expecting? Monogamy or
- Yes! If I care: yes!
- (To A.) Remember monogamy?
- me out of that one. about monogamy, if you like - pro and con, if you like. Leave (Pretends to puzzle it.) No. (New tone; to B.) You can talk
- you live, having to lie all the time and remember the lies! they say? Aside from bad taste, disease, confusion as to where (To A.) God, remember the lies? (General.) Infidelity is a matter of spirit — isn't that what
- Hmmmm. Well, there wasn't much, not too much
- Except for the groom, eh?
- Oh, my! The groom.
- Ü Why do I marry him?
- B Who — the groom? (A and B laugh.)
- Ü The one-eyed man! I marry the one-eyed man!
- Cir Yes, you do.
- Whyle
- (To C.) Why do I marry him? (To A.) Why did I marry him?
- (To B.) Why did I?

- Hmmmmmmm
- Tell me.
- funny looking and little like a penguin. Because he makes me laugh. Because he's little and he's
- (Has she thought this before?) Yes! Quite a bit like one
- (Generous.) Well ... especially in his bib and tucker.
- on him? (Some panic.) Why would I marry him if I'm going to cheat
- on you? (Smiles.) Why would you marry him if he's going to cheat
- I don't know!
- We cheat less, and we cheat because we're lonely; men cheat because they're men. Calm down; adjust; settle in. Men cheat; men cheat a lot.
- cheat for only one as you say, because they're men. cheat because we're whores. We cheat for lots of reasons. Men to get back; we cheat because we don't know any better; we No. We cheat because we're bored, sometimes. We cheat
- Tell me about him!
- Don't you want to be surprised?
- first one drank; still does. and he's divorcing his second wife; she's just plain bad; the met him. He's something of what they call a playboy - at least in my time, not yours. He's rich - or his father is -You've seen him, or ... he's seen you. I don't think you've
- led; preserved. That one dies eventually - eighty, or something: pick-
- (Timid again.) What's he like?
- eye, you know and he sings like a dream! A lovely tenor he's a great dancer - 'cept he keeps running into things, the - and he's funny! God, he's funny! (Expansive.) Well ... he's short, and he has one eye, and
- (Wistful.) Yes; yes, he was.
- (Pleased.) And he likes tall women
- (Still wistful.) Yes; yes, he did.
- (Uncertain.) I have seen him?
- He tells me I think I remember -
- BOP he tells me he

- saw me with Sis before he dated her, that I was taller, that Didn't he tell you that -- that he had his eye on us? he had - you'll forgive the joke - his eye on me. (To A.)
- dienne did the splits, the eight-foot one. (True.) I can't remember. He was going with that come-
- Well, you put a stop to that soon enough.
- Once you got your claws into him you mean?
- ing a voice, is dancing enough? (Puzzling.) Why did I like him? Is funny enough? Is hav-
- Don't forget one eye.
- Oh, he was nice; we liked him a lot.
- Liked? Liked him a lot.
- old, which is not a tot; there is the future to look out for ... (Looking right at C.) Oh, stop it! You're twenty-six years
- ... and he is rich, or is going to be: rich family.
- I don't believe this.
- (Sharp.) Our father dies.
- (About her father.) I loved him
- No! He doesn't!
- Everybody does.
- (To herself.) Except me, maybe
- (To C.) Except us.
- I love him!
- ing: Jesus, she loves me; how can I go and die on her? Well, that should be enough to keep the old heart go-
- Is it ... quick?
- (Pensive.) I don't remember.
- cried; Sis cried; Mom went out on the porch and did it there ing; oh, God, the terror in the eyes! (C begins to weep; B notices. Continued.) We did that, yes. We cried when Dad died. I Not bad: heart failure, fluid in the lungs, some bad breath-
- (Loss.) I don't remember.
- What happens to Ma?
- and then she moves in with us. (To A.) How does it go? She holds out; she stays on alone for almost twenty years,
- room in the big house with us. The colitis, the cigarettes, the she's eighty-four - seventeen years of it, staying up in her (Toneless.) What? She becomes an enemy. She dies when six or seven Pekingese she goes through. I stopped liking her.

- I couldn't!
- (Shrugs.) She becomes an enemy-
- (Interested, but not too much.) How?
- ting old, getting ... helpless the eyes, the spine, the mind. at everything; she sides with Sis; she criticizes me. She starts to resent that I have - we have - so much, and that I'm being generous — we're being generous. She snaps (Sighs.) She comes to resent me; she starts to resent get-
- (Some awe.) She wasn't like that.
- No! She couldn't be.
- still alive up there in the country, in the same house, she's a times a week ... hundred and thirty-seven now, does her own baking, jogs three I don't care. Forget I told you. She never moved in; she's
- All right; all right.
- Continued.) No, of course not. Anyhow, you marry him. head. Continued; to C.) Of course you don't. (C shakes her head. (To B.) There's more. You want to hear it? (B shakes her
- (Getting it straight.) I do.
- Yes; he's fun, and he's nice.
- He sings ...
- He dances ...
- ... and he's rich, or going to be ...
- ... and he loves tall women.
- And you suddenly realize you love short men.
- Penguins. (A and B both giggle.)
- me — doesn't like you — at all, but the old man does. (Still to C.) And it goes all right. His mother doesn't like
- He certainly does! "You're tall; I bet you're hot stuff." (To C.) You win him over. (To A.) You know, I think the
- old buzzard had letch for us?
- Yes; I think so.
- And, boy did he want a grandson.
- Oh, that made him happy.
- 0 > (Wonder.) I have children?
- (None too pleasant.) We have one; we have a boy.
- (Same.) Yes, we do. I have a son. (He appears in the right

- archway, stands stock still, stares at "A" on the bed.)
- den, and enraged, into his face.) Get out of my house! (He doesn't (Seeing him; sneering.) Well, fancy seeing you again. (Sud-
- (Rising.) Stop it! (Moves toward him.) Is ... is that him?
- I said, get out of my house!
- A. (To B.) Do be quiet. (To C.) Let him alone; he's come to see me. (He goes to "A," sits on a chair left of her, takes her left his forehead, becomes still. Does not react to anything about him unarm; his shoulders shake; he puts his forehead to her arm, or it to til indicated. Continued.) That's it; do your duty,
- He's ... my goodness. How nice; how handsome, how
- You wouldn't say that if you knew
- (To A.) She wouldn't! (To him.) Filthy little...!
- back. Let him alone. came back; he never loved me, he never loved us, but he came Shhhhhh. Shhhhhh. I don't want to think about that. He
- He's so young.
- took his life and one bag and went off. (To B.) No? Yes ... well. This is how he looked when he went away,
- coat the day you left. I thought I told you to get your hair (To his back; less venom, but mixed with hurt.) You wore that
- and he took one bag. (Pause.) And his life. Yes; yes, he did; he wore that coat. I'm leaving, he said
- (Bewildered.) He went away from me? Why?
- me to me? I let him? haven't noticed. (To A.) He comes back? He comes back to (Bitter.) Maybe you changed; they say you changed; I
- sides. He didn't come back when his father died back. Twenty-plus years? That's a long enough sulk -- on both Sure. We have a heart attack; they tell him; he comes
- (Scathing.) Of course not!
- hear his voice and it all floods back, but I'm formal. Well he's coming to see me; they say he's going to call. He calls. I But he came to me. They call me up and they tell me hello there, I say. Hello there to you, he says. Nothing about this shouldn't have happened. Nothing about I've missed you, not even that little lie. Sis is visiting; she's lying drunk and passed out upstairs and not even that little lie. I thought I'd come over. Yes, you do that. He comes; we look at each other and we both hold in whatever we've been holding in since that day he went away. You're looking well, he says; and you, too, I say. And there are no apologies, no recriminations, no tears, no hugs; dry lips on my dry cheeks; yes that. And we never discuss it? Never go into why? Never go beyond where we are? We're strangers; we're curious about each other; we leave it

3. I'll never forgive him.

A. (Wistful, sad.) No; I never do. But we play the game. We dine; he takes me places — mother, son going to formal places. We never ... reminisce. Eventually he lets me talk about when he was a little boy, but he never has an opinion on that; he doesn't seem to have an opinion on much of anything that has to do with us, with me.

B. (Clenched teeth.) Never!

. (To B.) Or with you. (To C; and sad smile.) Or you.

Did we ... did we drive him away? Did I change so?

B. (Rage.) He left!! He packed up his attitudes and he left!! And I never want to see him again. (To him.) Go away!! (Angry, humiliated, tears.)

A. (Very calm; sad smile.) Well, yes you do, you see. You do want to see him again. Wait twenty years. Be alone except for her upstairs passed out on the floor, and the piano top with the photos in the silver frames, and the butler, and ... be all alone; you do want to see him again, but the terms are too hard. We never forgive him. We let him come, but we never forgive him. (To him.) I bet you don't know that ... do you!?

C. (To A.) How did we change? (To him.) How did I change? (He strokes "A's" face, shudders a little.)

B. Don't bother yourself. He never belonged.

(Enraged.) I don't believe it!

B. (Furious.) Let it alone!
C. No! How did I change!? What happened to me!?

A. (Sighs.) Oh, God

(Determined.) How did I change!?

B. (Sarcasm; to the audience.) She wants to know how she changed. She wants to know how she turned into me. Next she'll want to know how I turned into her. (Indicates A.) No; I'll want to know that, maybe I'll want to know that.

A. Hahh!

B. Maybe. (To C.) You want to know how I changed?

". (Very alone.) I don't know. Do I?

B. Twenty-six to fifty-two? Double it? Double your pleasure, double your fun? Try this. Try this on for size. They lie to you. You're growing up and they go out of their way to hedge, to qualify, to ... to evade; to avoid — to lie. Never tell it how it is — how it's going to be — when a half-truth can be got in there. Never give the alternatives to the "pleasing prospects," the "what you have to look forward to." God, if they did the streets'd be littered with adolescent corpses! Maybe it's better they don't.

. (Mild ridicule.) They? They?

B. Parents, teachers, all the others. You lie to us. You don't tell us things change — that Prince Charming has the morals of a sewer rat, that you're supposed to live with that ... and like it, or give the appearance of liking it. Chasing the chambermaid into closets, the kitchen maid into the root cellar, and God knows what goes on at the stag at the Club! They probably nail the whores to the billiard tables for easy access. Nobody tells you any of this.

A. (Laying it on.) Poor, poor you.

C. The root cellar?

B. (To A and C.) Hush. No wonder one day we come back from riding, the horse all slathered, snorting, and he takes the reins, the groom does, and he helps us dismount, the groom does, his hand touching the back of our thigh, and we notice, and he notices we notice, and we remember that we've noticed him before, most especially bare chested that day heaving the straw, those arms, that butt. And no wonder we smile in that way he understands so quickly, and no wonder he leads us into a further stall — into the fucking hay, for God's sake!

sake, for our own sake, and we're dripping wet and he rides ing it for until we notice it turning into pleasure for its own of it I don't, but then I do; I do have him fired, because it's And I say, no, no of course you won't and for a month more us like we've seen in the pornos and we actually scream, and who's really stopped worrying about herself — about anything out for all the intrigue; start really worrying about your sister up for your husband when he won't do it for himself, watch to keep on the good side of the whole wretched family, stand two sure weren't and this one's not going to be either. Try girl's good enough for the penguin, not her penguin; the first senses the old man's got the letch for you and besides, no little bitch! Just doesn't like you — maybe in part because she son except her daughter hates you, fears you and hates you ones — the mother who just doesn't like you for no good reafor the real battles - for the penguin's other lady folk, the real you'd better keep your nose clean - or polished, anyway penguin, a long-term deal in spite of the crap he pulls, and dangerous not to, because it's a good deal I've got with the likes big women, but he didn't dare, and will he get fired now? it - cooling down, and tells us he's wanted us a lot, that he then we lie there in the straw - which probably has shit on even one or two we haven't sent him to, sense he hates you. watch your own mother begin to change even more than wait, I tell him, you just wait; I'll have you thrown out of this doesn't stop ... just ... doesn't ... stop? And he sneers, and doesn't stop getting letters, doesn't stop saying anything to outwit you, how to survive living with his awful family; tell from - how do they call it? - older friends?, telling him how in-law the same week!? Start reading the letters he's getting catch him doing it with your niece-in-law and your nephew-That!? - gets himself thrown out of every school he can find, you're aware you are, and then try to raise that!? (Points to him.) - and down we go, and it's revenge and self-pity we're doing his mail. Not while you're a minor, I tell him; you just he says very quietly that he can have me put in jail for openhim you'll brain him with the fucking crystal ashtray if he envies and therefore hates you — dumpy, stupid, whining house so quick it'll make your head spin. You're going to fire me, he says, quietly, smiling; You going to fire me too!? Just like you fired him? He's good in bed, isn't he!? Of course, you wouldn't know about bed, he says. He gets up, stops by me, touches my hair. I thought I saw some straw, he says; sorry. And he walks out of the solarium, out of the house, out of our lives. He doesn't say goodbye to either of us. He says goodbye to Mother, upstairs; he says goodbye to the Pekingese, too, I imagine. He packs one bag, and he leaves. (To him; rage.) Get out of my house!! (Pause; to C.) Does that tell you a little something about change? Does that tell you want to know?

- . (Pause; softly.) Yes. Thank you. (Silence.)
- . (Curious.) You want some more?
- 2. No, thank you.
- B. I shouldn't think so.
- Yes, you do; you want more.
- (Trying to stay polite.) I said, no, thank you.
- A. That doesn't cut any ice around here. (Points to B.) How you got to her is one thing; how you got to me is another. How do you put it ... that thing there? (Points to "A".)
- C. I'm sorry.
- A. Well ... maybe.
- B. Yeah, I've got a few doubts about that route myself.
- A. You!
- B. Yeah; well. I'm not so bad. There's been shit, but there've been good times, too. Some of the best.
- A. (Oddly bright.) Of course; there are always good times: like when we broke our back. (To C.) You break your back.
- B. (Laughs a little.) Yeah; you sure do
- . (Scared of this.) I do?
- B. Snap!
- (Smiles.) Well, not exactly. Snap! Really!
- B. I should know, it was only ten years ago, and ...
- A. Riding, yes; jumping. We never liked jumping hunters; saddle horse, yes, hunters, no. Brutes, every one of them, brutes or hysterics; but hunters it was that day, entertaining some damn fools. Brisk, burned leaves in the air, smell of yellow. (To B.) We didn't like our mount, did we? burning, just dawn; mist on the ground, dawn all green and

- No, I didn't like her; she was hysteric and a brute
- When do I learn to ride? I mean really ride
- It goes with the marriage.
- she was stupid and cantankerous, shied at a moving shadow (To C.) I said to him, you go on, I'll stay; you go on. Yes, I didn't trust her; I'd ridden her earlier that fall,
- shy like that? Over we went! see the fence in the mist? Did she come on it too fast and to a ... to your knees! Stupid cow of a horse! Couldn't she went, into the wood, the green, the gold, the mist knee high But he looked so hurt I said, oh, all right, and off we
- Over we went.
- Oh, no!
- (To B.) Could have broken my neck, I suppose. Lucky.
- Well, yes, there is that.
- (To B.) We never mounted a hunter again, did we?
- thought about most? Damned cast weighed a ton! And you know what I
- dick into? nered in what corner? what hallway? who he's poking his little (Remembering.) Who's he doing it with? who's he got cor-
- isn't broken. That he might leave us, that he might decide to get one
- (Awe.) What kind of man is this??
- (To C.) Man-man.
- (To C.) Man-man.
- How was this happy time? Good times, you said?
- (To B.) Of course. (To C.) We were fallible. Once you fall (To C.) Oh, well, we proved we were human. (To A.) No?
- it, they know you can be pushed. Whether you're made of crockery and smash into pieces, or you're bronze and you clang when you topple, it makes no never-mind; it's the plinth whether you get up or not - once you fall, and they see

- (To C.) To translate ...
- Thank you.
- (Sweet smile.) Thank you.
- so much ... because you're not perfect. thought, then they'll let you go right on doing everything for you're not quite as much better than they are, than they grudgingly, but grateful — but once you fall yourself, prove ing everything up - everyone - and they're grateful to you them, fixing the world, etcetera, but they won't hate you quite To translate ... you can go around fixing the world, patch-
- Doesn't that make it a happy time? and you don't have to get back up on a hunter anymore. something else; he's sweet and gives you a big diamond ring, Doesn't that make it a good time? He doesn't leave you for (Very bright.) And so everything's better. Nice and better.
- Do I get to shoot the horse?
- (Laughs.) I beg your pardon!?
- laugh together.) (Whoops!) Whoooooo! Never occurred to me! (A and B
- Ω (Grit.) I'll never become you — either of you
- big diamond? You don't wear it anymore? (Looks at C.) Oh, stop! (To A.) And the great ring — the
- (Suddenly sober.) Gone.
- I sold it. (Sobered too.) Oh?
- Oh?
- go anywhere! I have no money. I have money, but I eat into it ... every year; every year it's less. but most. Money doesn't go as far these days? Money doesn't (A little bitter.) I've sold everything. Well, not everything ...
- We should cut back; we should ...
- fake! All the jewelry sitting in the vault, in the bank? It's all Don't talk to me about cutting back! It's all paste! It's
- Why is there? Why do you ... why do we bother?
- (Contempt.) Huh!
- (To C, then to A.) Because we take it out and we wear it?

and why should anybody know our business? (Specifically to A.) Because the fake look as good as the real, even feels the same,

- Appearances
- Appearances? That which appears to be?
- I mean, who are we trying to impress?
- we bought it --- when he brought it in for me, he said ... Ourselves, You'll learn. I took the big diamond in. When
- better than you paid for it. He patted my hand. Pat-pat. You ever want to sell this you bring it back to me I'll give you ... this is a perfect stone; I've never seen a better one.
- was deeply flawed, or it was cloudy ... or something. cancer and all, after all that. They looked at it; they said it A. Pat-pat. And so I took it back - after he died, after the
- Sons of bitches!
- dollar wasn't worth half of what it had been? They offered me a third of what he paid for it, and the
- We just can't ... (To A.) Didn't you sue? (To B.) I mean, what can we do?
- planned to count on isn't; the extras? there, except less each year; it absorbs itself. It's all you've do. You go on; you ... eat into yourself. Starving people absorb their own bodies. The money's there - the investments are (Accepting.) What can you do? There's nothing you can
- (To A.) The big diamond, eh?
- it matter? It's all glitter. The big diamond ... and most of the rest. Well, what does
- that we're valuable ... (Embarrassed.) that we're valued. (Protest.) No! It's more than that! It's tangible proof ...
- (Shrugs.) Well, it's gone; all the glitter's gone
- (Rue.) Yup. (Waves.) Bye.
- Are there any other surprises?
- (Grating laugh.) Oh, yeah; lots!
- regular. There's a lot; she can't spend it all without people cash, and spends a little whenever there isn't enough of the the money. Whatever she gets for the jewelry she keeps in knowing what she's doing, I mean. She hides it, and then Oh, my dear; you just wait. (Over toward the bed.) She hides find it ... ever. And she can't tell anybody. (Silence.) eventually she can't remember where she hid it, and she can't

- (A little shy.) Is the cancer bad?
- When is it good?
- How bad?
- you; you deserve it! night, as I'm lying with him, holding him; and then there's there's nothing you can do to prepare yourself! I don't like the pink becomes red, and then there's blood in the bed, at ... no! Why go on with it!? (To C; ugly.) It's terrible! And coming with the urine now. And it's all downhill from there: bowl, and I look, and it's all pink in there, that the blood is toilet, and his face is filled with horror and he points to the I expect to see him lying there, but no, he's standing at the and then the day he screams in the bathroom, and I rush in; it's all right at first, but then the pain comes, slowly, growing, all right at first — except for the depression, and the fear course; everything does -- the ancients knew something. It's spreads to the bone, spreads to the brain, and to the liver, of years from when he knows it — when they tell him he has it to when he goes. Prostate — spreads to the bladder, (To B; softer tone.) Six years; I told you that; it takes him six (Mocking.) Fill me in; fill me in! (To C.) Pretty terrible!
- (So softly.) Thank you.
- (Quietly dismissive.) You're welcome.
- I don't like you either.
- can respond.) it, opposite from him. A speaks directly to him; now he can hear her, (Pause.) And so it goes. (Silence. A moves to the bed, sits on
- wait! Just you wait! I died, you see, and when I did it when did you leave me in that ... (He tries to touch her, to comfort her me — the hospital room: I was back in that awful hospitall I died — I was all alone ... no one there in the room with Oh, stop it! You don't think I'm going to? You can hardly thing, but I had one. It was I died. (His hand up. Continued.) Continued.) Don't you touch me!! There I was, and I was in a (Suddenly weepy.) Why didn't you take me out of there!? Why I had a premonition. I know you say there's no such what's coming to you. In my premonition I knew I was dead, want!? You want something. Well, you just wait. You'll get why you bring them to me, because I love them! Why do you people looking at me? Sometimes I wouldn't wake up ... not wonder who I was, and where I was, and who were all those coma, in and out, in and out. Sometimes I'd wake up and didn't know what to do with it? You held on to my hand, and and you touched my hand, and you bent down, and you kissed right away, and you stopped and you ... thought! (Loathing.) I dead, and you stopped at the door of the room, and you knew sia. You came into the room, and they were there, and I was and then you came in, and you had your flowers, your freechauffeur and the maid. I was there an hour, and I was dead, was no one there with me and I was dead! No one! Just the and it didn't seem to matter any, and I was all alone. There do that!? You hate me; why do you do that!? What do you me flowers, you brought freesia. You know I love freesia; that's all the way, and I'd half try, and then I wouldn't. You brought weeps, looks back at "A." A moves away from the bed. wasn't it? (Pause.) Wasn't it? (He looks at her once more, shudders, my hand wasn't warm anymore, was it? My hand was cold, you stood up, still holding on to my hand, as if ... what? You were watching and you kissed me for them! (Softer.) And then me on the forehead ... for them! They were there and they thought, and you decided, and you walked over to the bed, didn't your face ever change? And there you were, and you watched you think! And your face didn't change. (Wistful.) Why

B. (Softly.) And so it goes.

C. (To A; slowb, with great emphasis, but no anger.) I ... will not ... become ... you. I will not I ... I deny you.

A. (Mildly amused.) Oh? Yes? You deny me? (To them all.) Yes? You all deny me? (To C.) You deny me? (To B.) I suppose you do too. (B lowers her gaze. Continued.) Yes; of course. (To him.) And, of course, you deny me. (He looks at her. Continued; general.) Well, that's all right: I deny you too; I deny you all. (To C.) I deny you, (To B.) and I deny you, (To him.) and, of course, I deny you. (General.) I'm here, and I deny you all; I deny every one of you.

her head to C, not unkindly.) comes to the right or left of C, leaving center free for A later. B shakes right? Aren't I? I mean ... all along the way? No? Please? (B along the way. Isn't there!? And isn't it always ahead? Aren't I out? Please? I'm not a fool, but there is a lot of happiness whatever loss and taking away comes, won't it all be balanced to come. Aren't they? Please? And ... and whatever evil comes, times — what is it? happiest? — haven't happened yet. They're can't remember pain. Maybe all you can remember is the pleasure, either — in the same way, I mean, in the way you silly - if ever. Confirmation, for example, that wonderful time: memory of it ... remembering, remembering it. I know my best you can't remember pain. Well, maybe you can't remember you see, I'm remembering, and what I'm remembering doesn't ing up and down and sulking at the same time. But even now, of what probably will be the happiest even when I get to the ing silly, though God knows when that will be! - not feeling est moments? I haven't had them yet, have I? All done at have to do with what I felt, but what I remember. They say the white dress Mother made, Sis all jealous and excited, jumppoint I can begin to think about looking back without feeltwenty-six? I can't imagine that. I had some, of course, some Is it like this? What about the happy times ... the happi-

B. Silly, silly girl; silly baby. The happiest time? Now; now ... always. This must be the happiest time: half of being adult done, the rest ahead of me. Old enough to be a little wise, past being really dumb ... (An aside to C.) No offense.

C. (Looking forward: tight smile.) None taken.

B. Enough shit gone through to have a sense of the shit that's ahead, but way past sitting and playing in it. This has to be the happiest time — in theory, anyway. Things nibble away, of course; your job is to know that, too. The wood may be rotten under your feet — your nicely spread legs — and you'll be up to your ass in sawdust and dry rot before you know it, before you know it, before you know it, before you can say this is the happiest time. Well, I can live with that, die with that. I mean, these things happen, but what I like most about being where I am — and fifty is a peak, in the sense of a mountain.

- (An aside.) Fifty-two.
- B. Yes, I know, thank you. What I like most about being where I am is that there's a lot I don't have to go through anymore, and that doesn't mean closing down for me, at any rate. It opens up whole vistas of decline, of obsolescence, peculiarity, but really interesting! Standing up here right on top of the middle of it has to be the happiest time. I mean, it's the only time you get a three-hundred-and-sixty-degree view see in all directions. Wow! What a view! (A moves to center, B and C stay where they are.)

of all - that blessed one - the end of it. Going through the sense, but to the point where you can think about yourself in whole thing and coming out ... not out beyond it, of course, ing breathing space, time to concentrate on the greatest woe moment? (To the audience now.) Coming to the end of it, I alive — so's anybody'd notice, that is? I can do that. I can to chair - pillar to post? Is she going to call for somebody inside of the mouth, and now she's going to have to pee. Now she's going to test all the other stuff - the joints, the now she's going to see what works — the eyes, for example. morning, and I've thought, well, now, she's waking up, and the third person without being crazy. I've waked up in the but sort of to ... one side. None of that "further shore" nonthink, when all the waves cause the greatest woes subside, leavchildren. The happiest moment of all? Really? The happiest you're going to die. The second is better; it moves away from I think they're talking about another kind of joy. There's a difwhat they mean by that? I'm beside myself? I don't think so. that's the way I'm living — beside myself, to one side. Is that think about myself that way, which means, I suppose, that there, that she's not making a sound, that maybe she's not What's she going to do - go for the walker. Lurch from chair Can she see? She can? Well, good, I suppose; so much for that. the theoretical. I'm rambling, aren't I? ference between knowing you're going to die and knowing anybody ... the tiniest thought there might be nobody (Shakes her head; chuckles; to B and C.) You're both such (Gently; face forward.) A little.

A. (To B.) Well, we do that at ninety, or whatever I'm supposed to be; I mean, give a girl a break! (To the audience again.) Sometimes when I wake up and start thinking about myself like that — like I was watching — I really get the feeling that I am dead, but going on at the same time, and I wonder if she can talk and feel and ... and then I wonder which has died — me, or the one I think about. It's a fairly confusing business. I'm rambling. (She gestures to stop B.) Yes; I know! (Out.) I was talking about ... what: coming to the end of it; yes. So. There it is. You asked, after all. That's the happiest moment. (A looks to C and B, puts her hands out, takes theirs. Continued.) When it's all done. When we stop. When we can stop.

END OF PLAY